RUSH DENIES ANY ATTEMPT TO SWAY JUROR IN TRIAL

Local Man Charged With Embracery Testifies In Own Behalf in Court.

MOUNTAIN CASE OPENED

First Testimony Deals With Preliminaries, Including Engineer's Location of Crime; Defense Alleges Defendant Fired in Self Defense.

Called to the stand during the forenoon today in his own defense in the case in which he is charged with embracery Logan Rush of Connellsville testified that he made no effort to influence Ross F Lytle of Connellsville as a juror to vote for acquittal of Frank C Monaghan of Uniontown should be (Lytle) be called on the case He said he didn't know Lytle was on the jury until the latter mentioned the fact and said he was anxious to be excused

The witness said he and Lytle were old-time friends He said Lytle told him he was desirous of being excused from jury duty and inquired of him what chance there might be to which the witness said he replied that the court was very strict and the chances were small He denied that he had proposed to Lytle that his influence be used to acquit Monaghan in "any manner shape or form

Lytle was recalled on cross examination reiterated his testimony of yesterday In this he said that when he returned from his drug store Sunday afternoon prior to the opening of the second week of the March term of criminal court he found a note to call at the Royal hotel Connellsville to see Mr Rush Lytle testified that his wife gave him the note and he proceeded immediately to the hotel where he met Rush and was taken through several rooms into a room and there Rush informed him that he had a friend that he did not want to see convicted Nothing was said about anything concerning Frank C Monaghan whose case was listed for trial Mr Lytle said he informed Mr Rush that he would have to weigh the evidence and render a verdict accordingly.

On cross examination Lytle testified that when he went to the hotel he inquired if Rush wanted to see him and was greeted by "Come on up" from Rush He said he told Rush that if he were called as a juror on any case he would have to give the defendant a square deal He said Rush poured out a glass of liquor and drank and offered him a drink but that he excused himself by saying he did not drink

The witness said he did not recall the name of Monaghan being mentioned

Mrs. Lytle testified to a negro coming to the Lytle residence on Sunday afternoon with a note from Rush She said the messenger informed her who the note was from and directed that Lytle come to the hotel

Judge Reppert yesterday afternoon overruled a motion by counsel for Rush to quash the indictment on the grounds that the grand jury which found the indictment was illegal in that it was drawn from a jury wheel which contained only the names of male electors and from which all female electors were excluded because they were females and that said exclusion was and is in violation of the rights of the defendant as guaranteed to him by an amendment to the Constitution of the United States

Opening testimony in the case of Meade Mountain charged with killing his uncle Jasper Mountain in Springfield township dealt with the preliminaries including the engineer's location of the site of the crime

After a jury had been empaneled the Mountain case was continued until this morning owing to the fact that several material witnesses were not present

As the wedding party entered and left the church the bridal chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's wedding march were played by Mrs. Shipley and Mr. Gulick. Ford Manual
Ford

The Ford Manual says:—

"The oil should have sufficient body so that the pressure between the bearing surfaces will not force the oil out and allow the metal to come in actual contact. Heavy and inferior oils have a tendency to carbonize quickly, also 'gum up' the piston rings, valve stems and bearings."

Atlantic Polarine is right for your Ford motor

It meets perfectly the oil recommendations in the Ford Manual

Use Atlantic Polarine and you'll get the smoothest operation, the greatest power and the longest wear possible from your Ford motor.

Atlantic Polarine is right for the Ford lubrication system. No other oil has so wide a temperature range. None has its peculiar refinement and firm-bodied stability. Yet it has all the free-flowing mobility of lighter oil—without its disadvantages.

It reaches the close-fitting bearings in cold as well as warm temperatures. And it stays there—pressure and impact won't force it from the friction surfaces. No overheated or prematurely worn out bearings!

In the cylinders the superiority of Atlantic Polarine is even more pronounced. The hottest-running Ford motor won't break down its heat resistance. It lubricates! It makes the combustion chamber compression-tight—assuring power to the utmost and reducing oil dilution to the minimum.

Search the entire motor oil market and you'll not find another oil that so completely spells q-u-a-l-i-t-y as measured by the requirements of the Ford engine.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen. I am willing for my letter to be used for a testimonial to tell other suffering women how much your medicine has done for me, as I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R. D. 1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

COMMUNITY MEMORIALS TO SERVICE MEN.

The inauguration of a movement among the patriotic citizens of Leisenring, Trotter, Monarch and Sunnyside to provide funds for the erection of an appropriate memorial to the young men who served in the World War, is deserving of the highest praise and should have the sympathetic interest and substantial support of the people in the several vicinities.

As a whole communities have been all too slow to give proper recognition to the boys who went out from homes and friends to answer their country's call in a great emergency. The opportunities which exist to furnish substantial proof of appreciation of the sacrifices these boys made, and to instill in the minds of the rising generations enduring lessons in patriotism—have, in too many cases, been neglected. The citizens of these important centers in Dunbar township have determined, however, that their communities shall not be backward in doing their full part.

In this respect an example is to be given which other sections, perhaps no less patriotic but slightly slower to start action, can very profitably follow. This should be done with such unanimity that no center in Fayette county will be without its memorial to the fine spirited young men who served and sacrificed when there was need.

BEEHIVE OVENS DOWN, BUT, NOT OUT FOREVER.

Evidently construing the action of the H. C. Frick Coke company in closing down its beehive ovens as a permanent policy instead of a development in an unusually acute trade situation, Coal Age regards the incident as having "definitely established the old wasteful type of coke making in the stand-by class," and as indisputable proof that the by-product oven has already supplanted the more primitive type for the purpose of manufacturing metallurgical fuel. In elucidation of its argument Coal Age makes statements which contain some inaccuracies, the chief of which is the assumption that the beehive oven has already ceased to be a factor in coke production.

"Until the war," says Coal Age, "the United States Steel Corporation depended almost entirely on coke from the Connellsville region, but changed conditions with respect to the market for by-products, particularly the light oils, furnished the incentive for the erection of the largest by-product coke plant in the United States at Clairton, and now this plant is being operated for the coke supply of the corporation's furnaces, and the beehive ovens are indefinitely cold. What is true of the largest iron producer is true also of the lesser companies, so that today we find beehive coke production at a rate but one-sixth that of last year, when beehive coke was but 40 per cent of the total. At the present rate it would appear that when the record for 1921 is cast up, beehive coke will have made a very poor showing indeed—perhaps but 10 per cent of the country's total.

"From 1893, when the first new type ovens were started in this country, to 1914 the proportion of coke from the by-product ovens increased to but 22.5 per cent—in 1901 it was 5.4, in 1910 it was 17.1, in 1913 it was 25.8 per cent. Early in 1916 the Allies placed large orders in this country for light oils for munitions manufacture and impetus was given the by-product industry, which, however, did not reach its maximum until we entered the war, in 1917. The proportion of by-product coke was but 33.8 per cent in 1915, 35 in 1916 and 40.4 in 1917. In 1918 it had increased to 45 per cent and was 60 per cent in 1920.

"What this means in conservation is indicated by the figures of by-products recovered per ton of coal charged into the retort ovens. In 1919 with each ton of coal made into coke in by-product ovens there was recovered 20.8 pounds of ammonium sulphate, 8.1 gallons of tar, 2.7 gallons of crude oil and 11,600 cu. ft. of surplus gas. Expressed in totals, this means, according to preliminary estimates by the Geological Survey, that in 1920 through the use of by-product ovens the recovery of ammonium sulphate or its equivalent in other forms of ammonia was 458,500 net tons, and there also was saved 357,000,000 gallons of tar, 119,000,000 gallons of light oil and 511,400,000,000 cu. ft. of surplus gas.

"The passing of beehive ovens, hastened by the war, means more than the extinction of a wasteful type of coal carbonization—it means the passing of an industry from the hands of coal producers to the hands of coke consumers and gas producers. The producers of beehive coke must now turn shippers of by-product coal. The natural semi-monopoly of the Connellsville region is gone because with retort ovens the coke makers with plants at the points of coke consumption can pick and choose their coal and the producers of coal in the Connellsville region must compete with other coal fields for the business of these ovens. Instead of a beehive coke industry we have a new by-product coal industry, with the field greatly widened and more entrants for the business.

"One heritage the beehive coke industry still holds, it appears, and that is freight rates giving Connellsville coke an advantage over coal from the same mines shipped to by-product ovens and then shipped out as coke. This will be corrected in time to the advantage of the producer of by-product coal and the consumer of retort coke. No obstacle should be permitted to stand in the way of the complete development of an industry that in producing 25,000,000 tons of coke valued at $164,000,000, as in 1919, also saved by-products valued at nearly $64,000,000, as against a process that burns or wastes these valuable tars, oils, gas and fertilizer."

While the foregoing statistical information cannot be called into question, our contemporary of the coal industry is quite too positive in some conclusions deduced therefrom. It is not denied that the by-product oven made great headway under the stimulus of war time demand but a correct appraisal of the status of the coke producing industry requires that it should also be conceded that the beehive oven still has a large field for usefulness. A field to which its product is peculiarly adapted and to which preference is given by consumers. This fact will be again demonstrated when in the course of the prospective revival of industry, there will be a renewal of activity in the Connellsville region as the result of demand from users who will remain partial to beehive coke as long as it is available.

Another fact not to be overlooked is that, while the production of beehive coke is being curtailed very drastically this year, by-product output is also being lessened proportionately, and precisely for the same reason—the lack of demand for coke in iron making, not because by-product is being used exclusively for that purpose.

Adapting the Salvation Army slogan to the situation it can be said that "The beehive ovens may be down, but they are not yet ready to go out forever."

The reduction in the wholesale price of soft drinks ought to soften the hearts of the retailers without reducing the size of the dispensing containers.

THE MAN WHO HAS A BOY TO TRAIN.

The man who has a boy to train,
Has work to keep him night and day.
There's much to him he must explain,
And many a doubt to clear away;
His task is one which calls for tact
And friendship of the finest kind,
Because, with every word and act,
He molds the little fellow's mind.
He must be careful of his speech,
For careless words are quickly learned;
He must be wise enough to teach
What corners may be safely turned.

He should know just what books to read
And every game that's good to play,
He must himself be fit to lead,
And all the laws he must obey.
The man who has a boy to train,
Must thoughtful be to counsel well;
Without example, speech is vain
And it is not enough to tell
Those youthful ears the way to go,
For little eyes are quick to see
And very soon they come to know
If you are what you'd have him be.

It is no light and simple task,
A man must know so many things
To answer questions he will ask.
And yet what joy the duty brings!
To walk with him from day to day
And all the ways of men explain,
He has rich comradeship for pay
Who has a little boy to train.

CHRISTUS CONSOLATOR.

Beside the dead I knelt for prayer,
And felt a Presence as I prayed.
Lo! It was Jesus standing there;
He smiled, "Be not afraid."

"Lord, Thou hast conquered death, we know;
Restore again to life," I said.
"This one who died an hour ago."
He smiled: "He is not dead."

"Asleep then, as Thyself didst say,
Yet Thou canst lift the lids that keep
His prisoned eyes from ours away;"
He smiled: "He doth not sleep."

"Nay, then, though haply he do wake,
And look upon some fairer dawn,
Restore him to our hearts that ache!"
He smiled, "He is not gone!"

"Alas, too well we know our loss,
Nor hope again our joy to touch
Until the stream of death we cross."
He smiled, "There is none such."

"Yet our beloved seem so far,
The while we yearn to feel them near,
Albeit with Thee we trust they are."
He smiled, "And I am here."

"Dear Lord, how shall we know that they
Still walk unseen with us and Thee,
Nor sleep, nor wander far away?"
He smiled, "Abide in me."

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

By IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

"It is the home of Mr and Mrs Peter Lukins Their land near Chicago is now used for a cattle yard and slaughterhouse and is paying them a good income They moved here some time ago He looks after the reservoir. Mrs Lukins is a famous cook as you will see We can stay here as long as we want to We shall find everything we need in the well the chimney the butt'ry and the cellar And here is the wedding supper all ready for us and I as hungry as a bear"

"In the words of Mrs Lukins 'It is very copasetic' and I begin to feel that I have made some progress in the study of Bim Kelso Come let's have our supper"

"Not until you have broiled a piece of venison It will take a lot of food to satisfy me I'll get the cream and butter out of the well and make a pot of coffee Hurry up, Harry, I'm starving" –

Darkness fell upon the busy lovers and soon the firelight and the glow of many candles filled the homely cabin with flickering shadows and a soft, beautiful color

"Supper is ready," she said, when the venison steak had been deposited on the platter

"Bim, I love you not as most men love' he said as they stood a moment by the side of the table 'From the bottom of my heart I do respect you for your honor and good faith and when I think of that and of all you have suffered for my sake, I bow my head and ask God to make me worthy of such a helper"

They sat down to this unusual wedding feast, and as we leave them the windows of the little cabin fling their light far out upon the level plain, we hear the sound of merry laughter and of the tall grasses rustling and reeling joyously in the breeze The moon in mid heaven and the innumerable host around it seem to know what is passing on the edge of the Grand Prairie and to be well pleased Surely there is nothing that finds a quicker echo in the great heart of the world than human happiness!

CHAPTER XXV.

Being a Brief Memoir by the Honorable and Venerable Man Known in These Pages as Josiah Traylor Who Saw the Great Procession of Events Between Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson and Especially the Making and the End of Lincoln

Now, as I have done often sitting in the chimney corner at the day's end, I look back at my youth and manhood and tell, with one eye upon the clock of those years of fulfillment in the progress of our beloved pilgrim There are four and twenty of them that I shall try to review in as many minutes At this distance I see only the high places—one looming above another like steps in a stairway

The years of building and sentiment ended on the fourth of November 1842, when he and Mary Todd were joined in marriage Now like one having taken note of the storm clouds, he strengthens the structure

Mary tried to teach him fine manners. It was a difficult undertaking. Often, as might have been expected she lost her patience Mary was an excellent girl, but rather kindlesome and pragmatic Like most of the prairie folk, for instance Abe Lincoln had been accustomed to reach for the butter with his own knife and to find rest in attitudes extremely indolent and unbecoming. He enjoyed sprawling on the floor in his shirt sleeves and slippers with a pillow under his head and a book in his hand He had a liking for ample accommodation not fully satisfied by a bed or a lounge Mary undertook to turn him into new ways and naturally there was irritation in the house, but I think they got along very well together for all that. Mary grew fond of him and proud of his great talents and was a devoted wife For years she did the work of the house and bore him children He milked the cow and took care of the horse when he was at home

Annabel and I having just been married, went with him to Washington on our wedding tour in 1847 He was taking his seat in congress that year We were with him there when he met Webster Lincoln was deeply impressed by the quiet dignity of the great man We went together to hear Emerson lecture It was a motley audience—business men fashionable ladies and gentlemen statesmen, politicians, women with their knitting and lion hunters The tall awkward orator ascended the platform took off his top coat and drew a manuscript from his pocket He had a narrow sloping forehead a prominent nose gray eyes and a skin of singular transparency His voice was rich and mellow but not strong Lincoln listened with rapt attention to his talk about Democracy It was a memorable night He spoke of it often Such contact with the great spirits of that time of which he studiously availed himself in Washington, was of great value to the statesman from Illinois His experiences on the floor were in no way important to him but since 1914 I have thought often of what he said there regarding Polk's invasion of Mexico unauthorized by congress as it was

"The provision of the Constitution giving the war making power to congress was dictated as I understand it by the following reasons Kings had always been involving and impoverishing their people in wars pretending generally that the good of the people was the object This our convention understood to be the most oppressive of all kingly oppressions and they proposed to so frame the constitution that no man should hold the power of bringing this oppression upon us"

The next year he stumped Massachusetts for "Zach Taylor and heard Gov Seward deliver his remarkable speech on slavery which contained this striking utterance

"Congress has no power to inhibit any duty commanded by God on Mount Sinai or by His Son on the Mount of Olives

On his return home Lincoln confessed that we had soon to deal with that question

I was in his office when Herndon said

"I tell you that slavery must be rooted out'

"What makes you think so? Mr Lincoln asked

"I feel it in my bones was Herndon's answer

After that he used to speak with respect of "Bill Herndon's bone philosophy"

His term in congress having ended he came back to the law in partnership with William H Herndon—a man of character and sound judgment Those days Lincoln wore black trousers, coat and stock a waistcoat of satin and a Wellington high hat He was wont to carry his papers in his hat Mary had wrought a great change in his external appearance

They used to call him "a dead square lawyer" I remember that once Herndon had drawn up a fictitious plea founded on a shrewd assumption Lincoln carefully examined the papers

Is it founded on fact? he asked

No," Herndon answered

Lincoln scratched his head thoughtfully and asked

"Billy hadn't we better withdraw it plea? You know, it's a sham and generally that's another name for a lie Don't let it go on record The cursed thing may come staring us in the face long after this suit has been forgotten

On the whole he was not so communicative as he had been in his young manhood He suffered days of depression when he said little Often in good company, he seemed to be thinking of things in no way connected with the talk Many called him a rather shut-mouthed man

Herndon used to say that the only thing he had against Lincoln was his habit of coming in mornings and sprawling on the lounge and reading aloud from the newspaper.

The people of the town loved him One day, as we were walking along the street together, we came upon a girl dressed up and crying in front of her father's door

"What's the matter?" Lincoln asked

"I want to take the train and the wagon hasn't come for my trunk' said she

Lincoln went in and got the trunk and carried it to the station on his back, with people laughing and throwing jokes at him as he strode along When I think of him his chivalry and kindness come first to mind

He read much, but his days of book study were nearly ended. His learning was now got mostly in the school of experience Herndon says and I think it is true that he never read to the end of a law book those days The study of authorities was left to the junior partner His reading was mostly outside the law His knowledge of science was derived from Chambers Vestiges of the Natural History of Creation

He was still afraid of the Abolition Movement in 1852 and left town to avoid a convention of its adherents He thought the effort to resist by force the laws of Kansas was criminal and would hurt the cause of freedom "Let us have peace and revolutionize through the ballot box he urged

NOT TO KNOW IS NO EXCUSE

To Know How to Keep Well Is Better Than to Call in a Doctor to Get Well Sickness Is a Penalty Not an Accident

One of the best and most dependable and important preventatives of getting sick, one of the surest ways of keeping well is to form and maintain the exceedingly good habit of regular, thorough, daily bowel evacuation

That is Nature's "best bet". You should do your best to help Nature, not hinder her in her efforts to keep you well. With the best of good intentions you may employ many methods Strong, drastic acting medicines that force the bowels to act simply replace one evil by another evil It may secure temporary action but it produces more than temporary irritation and other bad effects Don't judge by promise in selecting a simple remedy to assist Nature Performance is the true test. Take Beecham's for example

Over 70 years ago people began to take Beecham's. Today millions of people all over the world take Beecham's, recommend Beecham's to their friends, hand the use of Beecham's down from father to son or from mother to daughter for generation after generation. That means much. You never hear any unfavorable criticism or complaint regarding Beecham's. That means much if not more. It takes real merit to withstand the tests of time and trial.

You can do much to help Nature keep you well by keeping a box of Beecham's in the house, ready for use at the first warning of disorder or derangement. All druggists sell Beecham's—are glad to sell Beecham's.

COVENANTERS ANNIHILATE UNITED BRETHREN OUTFIT; LEAGUE STANDING ISSUED

The Covenanters humbled the United Brethren team last night in a Church league game by the overwhelming score of 24-2. The West Side team has now won two games and lost one. The two victories have been by large scores and the single defeat has been almost as decisive.

The standing of the clubs was announced following the playing of the game last evening and three teams are tied for first place. They are the Methodist Protestant, the Christian and the Methodist Episcopal.

The two teams looked upon at the beginning of the season as the real contenders, the Covenanters and the United Presbyterians, are next in line respectively, with the Lutherans and Evangelicals tied at the same rung of the ladder as the U. P. outfit. The First Presbyterians have lost the only game played and the Baptist and United Brethren teams have been twice defeated.

In the game last night Kerr pitched for the Covenanters and Huey was on the mound for the defeated aggregation. Although hit hard he held his place throughout the game. Harmon caught Huey and Renocks was behind the bat for the Covenanter aggregation.

The standing of the clubs in the league follows:

TEAM	W	L	Pct.
Methodist Protestant	2	0	1.000
Christian	2	0	1.000
Methodist Episcopal	1	0	1.000
Covenanter	2	1	.667
Lutheran	1	1	.500
Evangelical	1	1	.500
United Presbyterian	1	1	.500
First Presbyterian	0	1	.000
Baptist	0	2	.000
United Brethren	0	2	.000

YOUNGWOOD HERE NEXT SATURDAY

The Connellsville Independents will meet the Youngwood Independents at Fayette Field next Saturday afternoon. The Westmoreland county team is composed of a number of star players from the Greensburg section who have been cleaning up the surrounding ball clubs.

The Cokers struck a snag last week in the J. J. Verona outfit and are desirous of meeting another real outfit this week-end just to prove they have not gone stale.

WESTMORELAND GROCERY FALLS AT S. CONNELLSVILLE

In a seven-inning game, played at South Connellsville last night, the Westmoreland Grocery company was defeated by the home outfit, 9-2. The second inning proved a disastrous one for the visitors, the South Connellsville batters hitting the horsehide for five tallies.

The score by innings:

Westmoreland Grocery ....010 101 0—2
South Connellsville ....150 012 x—9

Doeffler and Mitist; Rafferty and C. Lowery.

NEW PITCHER SIGNED FOR COKER OUTFIT

The Connellsville Independents have "turned up" a new pitcher. He is Walter Pickett, a southpaw, and pitching ace of the fast Grapeville team of Westmoreland county. He is rated as one of the "finds" of the season. He has already pitched against such teams as Tyler Tube, Murdocks, Allegheny Steel and two games against the Whitney club. Pickett will probably be seen in action next Saturday.

SODBUSTERS VANQUISHED BY REJUVENATED BEANOS

A large gathering of fans assembled at the Poplar Grove lot last evening, but it was the quietest crowd that ever witnessed a ball game. In fact, it was just like a funeral—even the collection being omitted. The final score was 27-6.

The Pirates advanced a little again yesterday by defeating the Philadelphia team, 3-2. The Pirates scored all runs in the eighth after Philadelphia had pushed two tallies across in the seventh. The New York Giants did not play yesterday. Pittsburg is idle today.

Boxing.

Conceded to be one of the best bouts ever arranged to take place in this vicinity, the 10 round encounter in which Eddie Carver of Pittsburg meets Young Carmen of Charleroi on the night of July 4, is arousing more than the usual interest. Both Carmen and Carver are rated the top of the lightweight class in Western Pennsylvania, each having gained fame through their clever ring work.

The preliminary bouts are being arranged as rapidly as possible, the Fayette A. C. intending to make this show the banner one of the boxing season. Johnny Pollock, the Dawson sensation, will be seen in the semi-final, pitted against the best boy that the matchmaker can secure to meet him.

Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Every family should keep this preparation at hand ready for instant use when needed. Severe attacks of colic and cholera morbus often prove fatal before medicine can be procured or a physician summoned. The uniform success that has attended the use of this remedy and the prompt cures which it has effected have made it a staple article of trade.—Advertisement.

An Advertisement Helped Her.

Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista street, Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my three-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough. It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping-cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin, but now she is as fat as ever." Sold everywhere.—Advertisement.
